PHIL HEATH

6X Mr Olympia, Team Ultimate Nutrition

Monday September 19, 2016, Armbrust Pro Gym, Wheat Ridge, Colorado - 9:58 pm.

Imagine you are Phil "The Gift" Heath. Less than 48 hours ago, you just won your 6th consecutive Mr. Olympia, tying Dorian Yates's record. You were so dominant on stage, that in both the judging and pre-judging every judge voted you first place. Yesterday, the day after the Olympia, you spent over 10 hours at grueling photoshoots. For the last 180 days, you have lived and breathed bodybuilding. You have worked out daily, (sometimes twice a day) and eaten eight boring meals each day for the past 6 months. Your down time has been spent looking at thousands of pictures of your body with your trainer and figuring out where you can get even better.

Three hours ago your airplane landed back in Denver. What did you do when your plane landed? Did you go home and go to sleep or binge watch your favorite TV show? HELL NO!!! You went to the gym to work out!

Armbrust Gym is nearly empty, your car parked in front of a sign that has your name on it - Phil Heath 5X Mr. Olympia, which now needs to be changed to 6X Mr. Olympia. For the past 2 hours, you have done dozens of sets. Since you have not worked out in several days, you have pushed yourself to the max. Your muscles are filling with lactic acid and starting to cramp, your body is drifting into an anti-catabolic (muscle wasting state) as it has been depleted of nutrients, BCAA's and proteins. You are even more dehydrated than when you were on stage 48 hours ago.

To fix this, you need to get back into an anabolic state and to maximize the return on investment of the blood, sweat, and tears you have just shed during your workout. You need nourishment fast, real fast, so that your muscles can start to recover and grow. They are dying to be fed now with no time for you to take a regular whey protein shake and wait for your body to break it down into amino acids.

To be the best, you need to use the best. You immediately consume 2 scoops of HYDROCOOL by Ultimate Nutrition. With 33g of 100% Hydrolyzed (enzymatically pre-digested) Whey Protein Isolate, your muscles are fed almost instantly and start to build and repair. You can almost feel it. As you shut off the lights, you smile because you know HYDROCOOL has allowed you to maximize your gains at the gym and nothing has been wasted. The countdown to number 7 begins...

HYDROCOOL - Fast Acting Hydrolyzed Whey Protein Isolate.
If it works for Mr. Olympia, it will work for you.
